

Methods of screening human subjects for susceptibility to viral disease and/or a predisposition to developing more severe viral disease and also methods of screening human subjects for susceptibility to developing immunodeficiency and/or a predisposition to developing more severe immunodeficiency.